Tutor biography

Professor Jem Poster

Emeritus Professor of Creative Writing, Aberystwyth University; Affiliated Lecturer, University of Cambridge Institute of Continuing Education.

Jem Poster worked as an archaeologist, surveying and excavating a range of sites on behalf of the Inspectorate of Ancient Monuments, before taking up an administrative post with Cambridge University's Institute of Continuing Education in 1987. From 1993 to 2003 he was University Lecturer in Literature with Oxford University's Department for Continuing Education and a fellow of Kellogg College. From 2003 to 2012 he was Professor of Creative Writing at Aberystwyth University, and is now Emeritus Professor. He is the author of two novels, Courting Shadows (2002) and Rifling Paradise (2006), as well as a collection of poetry, Brought to Light (2001), and has recently completed volume 3 of the six-volume Oxford University Press Edward Thomas: Prose Writings (forthcoming April 2018). He has won prizes in major poetry competitions including first prize in both the Cardiff International Poetry Competition in 1995 and the Peterloo Poets Open Poetry Competition in 2001.

He has been Chair of the editorial board of Wales's leading literary journal, New Welsh Review, and is currently Programme Advisor to the Cambridge Institute of Continuing Education's MSt in Creative Writing and Director of its International Summer Programme in Creative Writing; he is an Affiliated Lecturer of the Institute. He is Director of Academic Programmes for the Financial Times Oxford Literary Festival and in 2014 spent four months as Writer in Residence at Arizona State University.

Course syllabus

Aims:

1. to explore the relationships between Thomas’s work and its wider context;
2. to analyse the works under review;
3. to gain a clearer sense of the writer’s achievement.

Content:

Widely regarded as one of the finest poets of the twentieth century, Edward Thomas was also a gifted prose writer, with a sharp eye for the detail of the natural world. In this course we shall focus primarily, though not exclusively, on the prose, following in Thomas’s footsteps as he travels the English countryside and examining with him the rural landscapes and ancient ways of life that were already under threat in his lifetime.

We shall focus on a group of relevant prose works – The Heart of England, The South Country, The Country, The Icknield Way, In Pursuit of Spring – and a small number of poems. It would be useful to read as many of the books as you can in advance, but not essential: the passages to be discussed in detail will be sent out a month in advance of the course to all those who have enrolled on it.

Presentation of the course:

The course will take the form of a series of seminars, in which group discussion will be actively encouraged; the majority of these discussions will focus on the texts themselves, which will be analysed in detail.

As a result of the course, within the constraints of the time available, students should be able to:

1. place the writer in his wider context and understand more clearly the implications and meaning of his work;
2. gain greater confidence in their approach to the analysis of literary texts in general.
